

Jennifer L. Tackett, Northwestern University, USA

Jennifer L. Tackett is an Associate Professor of Psychology and Director of Clinical Training at Northwestern University. Her research spans the areas of child personality and externalizing psychopathology, and she is actively engaged in meta-science topics including methods, assessment, replicability, and open science. She is currently an associate editor at the Journal of Abnormal Psychology and Advances in Methods and Practices in Psychological Science, and a senior editor at Collabra : Psychology, Clinical. She is Secretary/Treasurer of the Association for Research in Personality and on the executive boards of the Society for Research in Psychopathology and the Coalition for the Advancement and Application of Psychological Science.

